

is now seen as the accepted way of cleaning windows in harmony with recent health and safety legislation.

Reduced disturbance

Although we do our best to keep disturbance to a minimum, ladder use causes some inevitable disturbance. E.g. rattling of the metal or dents in your lawn etc. These problems are avoided with the use of water fed pole system.

Increased Privacy

Something many householders appreciate is that by using water fed poles instead of ladders, there is no more need to worry about the window cleaner suddenly appearing at the bedroom window. No more running around tidying up or shutting the curtains!

Improved access

We can now reach with ease previously inaccessible aspects of your property such as third floor windows, conservatory roofs, windows above the conservatory or sloping roofs and other windows that previously had to be left for safety reasons.

Finally, although we will do our best to rinse away as much as possible of the previously mentioned soap residue left from previous cleaning methods, please allow for some slight 'spotting' for the first clean. Soap tends to lodge around the edge of the frames, and it may take a few cleans to completely rinse it away. Please feel free to phone or discuss any part of the above or indeed any aspect of our service. If you have any concerns about this new way of cleaning your windows please let me know and we will endeavour to alleviate your concerns.
